

International Share Index (Hedged)

Quarterly Investment Option Update

30 September 2022

Aim and Strategy

The strategy aims to provide returns that closely match the MISC World (ex-Australia, ex-Tobacco) Accumulation Index with net dividends reinvested (100% hedged to Australian dollars) before fees and taxes. Exposure to the international shares asset class will be attained through the use of low cost index-focused investment managers. Note: A currency hedged strategy attempts to reduce the impact of movements in the Australian dollar, relative to other currencies where the portfolio holds exposure, to smooth net performance.

Market Review

A rally early in the September quarter promptly reversed, as sharemarkets fell on concerns around the ongoing high levels of inflation, further rate rises from central banks and a growing likelihood of recession. International shares ended the quarter down by 4.5%, as measured by the MSCI World ex Australia index. (However due to currency movements, positive returns were recorded in both Australian and New Zealand dollar terms.) While hopes of a peak in inflation were stoked by a pullback in the prices of some core goods, core services now look to be taking the lead in driving the CPI. An escalating situation in Ukraine also didn't help, with Russian nuclear threats reiterated. US corporate earnings meanwhile came in generally ahead of expectation, while outlooks were not as bad as feared. Emerging markets fared worse over the period, falling by 8.2%, as measured by the MSCI Emerging Markets index. Chinese equities were a major driver of the underperformance amid weak Chinese growth, ongoing uncertainty around "zero-COVID" lockdown restrictions and property market issues. A strengthening US dollar also likely impacted, given most emerging-market national debt is held in US dollars. (All indices quoted in local currency terms and on a total-return basis, unless otherwise stated.)

Outlook

As central banks continue to raise interest rates to fight inflation, markets appear to have factored in a strong likelihood of recession. Corporate earnings are facing headwinds, with increased costs eating into margins often reflected by downwards revisions to earnings estimates. The war in Ukraine is likely to exacerbate uncertainties in energy prices. In this environment, businesses with a strong competitive advantage and power to raise prices are likely to gain market share. Significant falls in markets tend to create strong investment opportunities and we believe investors with a diversified portfolio of quality businesses, bought at a reasonable price, are likely to do relatively well in the long-term.
